

Social media users often see false information and harmful content because platforms don't moderate well, and their algorithms are biased.